DERMATOLOGY

MOLE CHECK DIAGNOSIS

Our dermatologists have extensive experience in performing thorough mole checks, using the latest technology and techniques to detect any abnormalities or changes in the skin. We also take the time to answer any questions you may have and provide you with a tailored plan to help keep your skin healthy.

What to expect during a mole check

During your mole check consultation, our dermatologists will examine your skin from head to toe, looking for any moles that may be suspicious or atypical. We will also take a medical history and discuss any previous sun exposure, as well as any other factors that may increase your risk of skin cancer.

Skin Cancer

If any moles are found to be suspicious, we may recommend a biopsy or full removal to determine whether skin cancer is present. If skin cancer is detected, we will work with you to develop a personalised treatment plan that addresses your individual needs.

ISOTRETINOIN TREATMENT

We prescribe Isotretinoin only to individuals aged 18 and over. However, we offer a range of alternative acne treatments that are suitable for those under 18. To explore the best options for your skin, we recommend booking a dermatology consultation.

Isotretinoin treatment is a potent medication used to combat severe acne that hasn't responded to other treatments. It works by addressing the root causes of acne, such as excess oil production, inflammation, and bacterial growth. Typically taken orally over several months, isotretinoin significantly reduces acne lesions and can improve skin texture. It's often prescribed for individuals with persistent acne vulgaris, nodular acne, or acne causing scarring or psychological distress. However, due to its potency and potential side effects, it's reserved for severe cases and requires careful monitoring by a dermatologist.

The cost of Isotretinoin treatments varies based on the severity of the condition. Below is an approximate estimation tailored to the average Isotretinoin patient journey.

MICRONEEDLING

Microneedling is a cosmetic procedure that involves using a small device called a microneedling pen to create tiny punctures in the skin. The device contains very fine, sterile needles that penetrate the skin's surface to a depth of up to 2 millimetres, triggering the skin's natural healing response.

The punctures created by the microneedling pen stimulate the production of collagen and elastin, which are proteins that help keep the skin firm and supple. The increased collagen and elastin production can improve the appearance of stretch marks, fine lines, wrinkles, and other signs of ageing.

Microneedling is suitable for individuals who are looking to:

- Reduce the appearance of fine lines and wrinkles, particularly around the eyes, mouth, and forehead.
- Improve skin texture and tone, particularly in cases of stretch marks, acne scars, sun damage, or hyperpigmentation.
- Stimulate collagen production, which can help improve the overall texture and quality of the skin.
- Address specific skin concerns, such as uneven skin tone, enlarged pores, and stretch marks.
- Improve the effectiveness of skincare products by allowing them to penetrate more deeply into the skin.
- Enhance the overall radiance and glow of the skin, giving it a more youthful and healthy appearance.
- Treat certain skin conditions, such as rosacea and alopecia, by stimulating the body's natural healing response.

Plexr Plus uses plasma energy to improve the appearance of the skin by stimulating collagen production, reducing fine lines and wrinkles, and correcting various skin imperfections. The Plexr Plus device emits a highly-focused beam of plasma energy that targets specific areas of the skin. The energy heats up the skin cells, which causes them to shrink and tighten. As a result, the skin becomes smoother and firmer.

Plexr Plus is suitable for individuals who are looking to:

- Reduce the appearance of fine lines and wrinkles, especially around the eyes and mouth.
- Tighten and firm loose or sagging skin without the need for surgery.
- Reduce the appearance of scars, including acne scars, surgical scars, and stretch marks.
- Correct pigmentation, by reducing the appearance of age spots, sun spots, and other types of hyperpigmentation.
- Undergo a non-surgical blepharoplasty. Plexr Plus can be used to perform a non-surgical eyelid lift, also known as a non-surgical blepharoplasty.
- Find an alternative to a traditional facelift, Plexr Plus tightens and lifts the skin on the face and neck.

ILLUMIFACIAL

A photofacial (Illumifacial), also known as intense pulsed light (IPL) therapy, is a non-invasive cosmetic procedure that uses light energy to improve the appearance of skin imperfections and signs of ageing.

During a photofacial, a handheld device delivers pulses of light energy to the skin, targeting areas of discolouration, redness, and fine lines. The light energy is absorbed by the pigment in the skin, which causes the targeted cells to heat up and eventually break down. The body's natural healing process then removes the damaged cells, resulting in a more even skin tone and smoother texture.

The Illumifacial is suitable for individuals who are looking to:

- Reduce the appearance of sun damage, including age spots, freckles, and uneven skin tone caused by prolonged exposure to the sun.
- Reduce redness and inflammation associated with rosacea and other skin conditions.
- Improve the appearance of acne scars, by stimulating collagen production and reducing the appearance of redness and pigmentation.
- Reduce the appearance of fine lines and wrinkles, by stimulating collagen production and improving skin texture.
- Reduce the appearance of large pores, by shrinking them and improving skin texture.
- Improve overall skin tone and texture, by stimulating collagen production and increasing blood flow to the skin.
